Mr. Angus Thuermer
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C. 20505

Dear Mr. Thuermer:

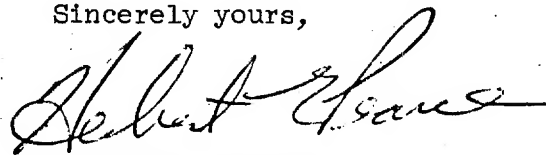

Several years ago, I had the pleasure of participating in a Brookings Institute program which brought us to your agency. Its objective was to provide selected industry representatives insight to the roles which your organization plays in contributing to the successful operation of our government. I was impressed with the directness and sincerity of your management to convey the dedication of the entire agency to serve our country in a most difficult capacity.

As a member of the Council of AIAA Washington Section, it occurred to me that the timing might be appropriate for a similar meeting with a group of aerospace technical and management people from both government and industry who reside in the Washington area.

The Washington Section is now planning its 1975-1976 program and would be pleased to include an activity similar to the Brookings visit sometime after January next year. (The Brookings program consisted of a lunch paid by the guests and approximately an hour and half discussion.) The interest from our 1,800 local membership should be high, so feel free to suggest a format which is most comfortable to your agency.

We look forward to your favorable reply.

Sincerely yours,

Herbert E. Pearce

Remarks: 1: This is similar to one I also mentioned at morning meeting few days ago.          Could we: Feed these guys at either cafeteria or Rendezvous --depending upon number -- and then meet with them either in the Beehive or the Rendezvous for Briefings, type briefing also depending on how many come out here. I was thinking of evening, but maybe a lunch would be better. What thots?          2,3,: FYI. AMT
